Looking Forward

Hello Fellow Birders ~ I hope you are enjoying this lovely summer weather. Amazing that our Fall season is nearly upon us—a favorite time for birding and now we can look forward to many exciting adventures— new field trip locations, great new programs, parties & projects. A special Garden Event for Friends members is planned for Sept. 27, Creek Cleanup Day Sept.19, a pelagic field trip in October and much, much more. Be sure to clip our Field trip schedule & attach to your calendar so you won't miss out. Some of our activities are for Friends members only – so please renew or join Friends of NSAS today---these funds are essential to the ongoing support of our projects. Volunteer opportunities are also abundant: We're seeking both new & 'seasoned' volunteers to help with our Christmas bird counts, Coastal cleanup day, educational programs & fun events for kids. Just a few hours of your time can make a huge difference to our birds & their habitats. I hope to see you soon at one of our events or activities.
---Cheryl Harris, NSAS President

Our Together Green Project - A Success!

In Sept. 2008, NSAS received a grant from Together Green – a program of National Audubon Society with funding from Toyota – to promote wildlife habitat conservation and restoration on vineyards, ranch and farm lands, parks and open space preserves, and other properties by providing information, resources, educational materials, and outreach to rural land owners, land managers, and critically, those who work on the land in the Napa Valley.

On Thursday, August 6, more than 50 Spanish-speaking vineyard workers spent the morning learning about the value of biodiversity and wildlife habitat in and around agriculture.

This was the fifth in our series of Habitat workshops; the first directed at agricultural workers and presented entirely in Spanish.

We enlisted volunteers from NSAS, Napa RCD, Napa Land Trust, and other local organizations to present information on birds, native plants, beneficial insects & pollinators, reptiles, weeds, and other topics. The high point for many was the chance to see and touch live animals: Joe Lam of Joe's Reptile Rescue brought live snakes, so that workers could see the difference between poisonous snakes and harmless gopher and king snakes that consume gophers and other rodents, significant vineyard pests. Additionally participants learned how habitat can be provided for owls, kestrel, and other raptors -- excellent gopher predators. Participants also built bluebird boxes to mount near their vineyards.

Many thanks to our NSAS volunteers: Norma Ferriz, Betty Labastida, Uzelle Williams, Lore Dias, Pat Hildreth, Kathleen Shannon, Keith Gish, Wally Neville, Karen Martin, Dave Steiner and many others.

Also- a very special thank you to our partner in this Together Green project for her outstanding efforts:

Habitat at Home – Improving Your Property for Birds & Other Wildlife

Tuesday September 29, 7:00–8:30 pm
Napa City County Library, 580 Coombs St., Napa.

Co-sponsored by Napa CNPS—This presentation, by our “Together Green” Habitat project Coordinator, Rose Roberts, will describe how to improve wildlife habitat on your own property for birds and others — by providing water, nest boxes, planting native plants in habitat groupings, hedgerows or corridors. There will be a preview of Oct. 3, Napa CNPS plant sale offerings. Open to all. Refreshments.

Save The Date!

A special Garden event for all NSAS Friends members is planned for Sunday afternoon Sept. 27. Invitations will be sent soon to Friends members. We will gather in a beautiful private Napa garden to enjoy fine wine, delicious hors d'oeuvres, an opportunity to meet other members with similar interests & enjoy a tour of the garden featuring the best plants & methods for attracting birds, butterflies & pollinators.

Would you like to see one of your wonderful bird photographs in a new Napa Solano Audubon Society brochure that explains who we are and what we do?

The Membership Committee of NSAS is sponsoring a photo contest—winners to be announced at the October general meeting. Our new brochure will have space for several photographs and/or artwork so there could be several winners! We also welcome drawings of birds and photos of people watching birds. The only stipulation is that the pictures be local. Deadline for submission is Monday, Sept.21.

For more information, call Janet Thiessen at (707) 935-9752 or email membership@napasolanoaudubon.com.

Tuesday, Sept. 8, 2009 Birding in Central Peru

NSAS Past-president Darrell Lee presents his recent adventures (& birding) in Central Peru; Peru has about 1700 species of birds. Darrell and his two birding companions toured Central Peru for 18 days, camping half their nights in remote areas and local schoolhouses to see about 500 species. Their tour had them birding from 2200' elevation in the Amazon basin to nearly 17,000' elevation in the Andes. They also birded three days around Lima. In addition, Darrell and one other birder spent a day birding the Cuzco area, and three days in the Machupicchu/AguasCalientes area sightseeing and birding. Join Darrell for a colorful slideshow and interesting narrative about this May-June 2009 adventure in Peru.

Tuesday, Oct. 13, 2009 The Use of Falcons in Bird Abatement

Presented by Greg Burdick - Travis Air Force Base (AFB), Bird Air Strike Hazard team

The World Bird Sanctuary in Missouri has had the contract for bird abatement at Travis since 1996. Greg is currently part of the Bird/wildlife Air Strike Hazard (BASH) Team at Travis AFB. He works the flight line with dogs and falcons to clear the runways of birds and other wildlife. Since BASH started at Travis they have substantially reduced the number of bird strikes on the base. As a result of their effectiveness, BASH is now deemed "Mission Critical" and on the same level as Security Forces and the Fire Department.

They are also involved in bird abatement at Hay Rd Landfill, and have effectively reduced the number of gulls feeding at the landfill from over 5000 to less than 100. Falcons are also being used in orchards, vineyards and berry patches and have doubled and, in some cases, nearly tripled yields.

Tuesday, Nov. 10, 2009 The Power of Audubon & Citizen Science

Presented by Gary Langham - Director of Bird Conservation for Audubon California.

Gary will provide a brief history of citizen science at Audubon, focusing on projects in California. Although citizen science has been around for more than 100 years, new technologies are ushering in a golden age where everyone can participate and results are real-time. Citizen science can connect us to each other, to our landscapes, and provide the data to power sophisticated science projects on disease, climate change, and range changes in our backyard birds.

What Is A Friend?

Are you puzzled by the term "Friends of Napa Solano Audubon Society?" Do you think, as I did, that it refers to an elite group of big donors? I'd been coming to monthly Napa Solano Audubon meetings and participating in field trips for several years before I learned that "Friends" are simply members of NSAS. Some of them donate above and beyond their annual dues, but Friends are not obligated to do so.

The membership categories of Friends of NSAS are: Individual ($25) and Family ($35). As of August 1, 2009 there are 227 Friends of NSAS. Their dues stay in our local area and support our meetings, field trips, educational programs, publications, and special projects.

We also carry on our mailing list 800 + residents of the Napa-Solano area who are members of the National Audubon Society. These people are valued members of our birding community – their National dues support National issues & pay for their Audubon magazine subscription. They also receive The Song Sparrow, our quarterly newsletter, and are welcome to join most of our activities and events. There are even 108 of our valued members who support both organizations! We would really love to increase this number.

So those of you who are members of National but are not yet Friends, please give some thought as to where you want your hard-earned bird dollar to go. It isn't either/or; it can be both/and. So, join us—we will welcome you with open arms!
